"The Global Consulting Partnership has a relationship with the founders of LMAP, going back 25 years, which probably says it all. To do the kind of in-depth, personality-/EQ-focused development work that we do at tGCP, a sophisticated leadership-styles tool is essential. Competency-based tools are fairly straightforward to build. A powerful, styles-based tool? Not so easy!"

If you genuinely want to help your clients understand what emotional intelligence is all about, use the LMAP 360... the developers of the LMAP 360 have been making behavioral style-based tools for many years and their contributions to assessing, modifying, and refining "work styles" have been seminal."

"Our firm, leadershipForward, has had the privilege to work with LMAP for the past eight years. We have used the LMAP 360 Assessment with several thousand of our client leaders and think the LMAP tool provides some of the most comprehensive insights in articulating the factors that Underlie leader's effectiveness. Moreover, we have also greatly appreciated the exceptional and personalized support that we continue to receive from the LMAP team. We strongly recommend the LMAP 360 Assessment to set the stage for successful executive coaching and the LMAP Pulse provides the needed follow-up on behavioral change. We often hear our clients reference their LMAP feedback as a turning point in their leadership development journey. LMAP will always be our leadership assessment tool because the assessment is extraordinarily reliable and proven and because the LMAP Team has proven to be an incredible and trusted business partner."
